Foreword by Larry Willard

You did not have to be a prophet to predict that Donald Trump would contend for distinction as the most controversial president to hold that office in American history. From the day he emerged out of one of the most combative nominations in Republican history, and then one of the most contentious elections in American history, Donald Trump has polarized US politics like no one before him. Yet, alongside these realities, one of the most interesting side facts is that he has overwhelmingly been embraced by a significant part of the Evangelical community throughout the USA.

Trump's many prevalent and visible traits are not the usual qualities that attract Christians, especially Evangelicals, to a leader. He is somewhat an enigma, with endless adversaries always ready to broadcast and highlight his unchristian side as a brash self-promoter, a verbal brawler, a casino owner, a womanizer, and worldly focused. Yet, these are paradoxically offset by the fact that he is privately highly disciplined, sober, often generous, a clever businessman, a devoted father, and the most pro-life president ever, who, since his election, has surrounded himself with a bounty of men and women of Christian faith and has made the defense and even promotion of religion, religious issues, and traditional values a hallmark and key component of his image and presidency.

This book does not try to itemize, legitimize, analyze, litigate, or defend the many issues or contentious opinions that exist around Trump; rather, we present documentation that, even before his nomination win, a number of prophets predicted he would not just become president of the USA in 2016—uprooting corruption in American politics—but also reverse the lengthy deterioration of traditional US values.

I am aware that many publishers are averse to presenting the prophetic material referenced in these pages, mostly because of the fear that such material can be a death kiss to the credibility of a publisher. Professor Beverley and I both realize that our intentions and integrity might be questioned by publicizing the prophecies to the public or even by simply doing a book about Donald Trump. However, as you will notice, we present the prophecies without much commentary. We are leaving it up to the readers to make their own judgments about Trump, Republicans, Democrats, the USA, and the accuracy or importance of prophecy to the saga of Donald Trump.

Our interest in the topic of Donald Trump in modern Christian prophecy arises from two factors. First, for Professor Beverley, as he notes in his introduction, his investigation of Trump prophecies arises out of four decades of study of charismatic and Pentecostal prophecy. He has lectured on prophecy-related topics all over the world, including a presentation on the Trump aspect at an international conference in Taiwan in 2018. He has also written frequently on modern Christian prophecy, including his book Holy Laughter & The Toronto Blessing (Zondervan, 1995). So, there is an academic angle to this current book.

There is a second and very personally compelling reason—my own interest in the Trump presidency and prophecies concerning his work in the White House, related to my own unusual experience. It was a personal encounter and is one of only two or three such incidents that I have ever experienced. The incident converted my view about Trump as it relates to his selection or at least favor by God for the job as president at this moment in history.

Before I had heard there were people of various prophetic camps making predictions about Trump's political future and identity, one evening I was sitting and thinking about how far Trump had gone in the candidacy selection of the Republican Party, with such fervent opposition from so many segments of the established party faithful and his use of such unconventional approaches. I wondered if it was good for him to win the top job. I didn't doubt his skills and acumen in business and communication, as no one becomes a billionaire without a lot of shrewdness, discipline, and savvy. I also reminded myself that he was not running for the head of a religious denomination, so maybe being a Christian was not the most important quality to meet the need for a leader of America at this time.

Then, quite suddenly, I felt compelled to look up Isaiah 45. I ignored the impulse at first, thinking it was odd and untimely, and I could not remember the topic of the chapter, so why should I look at it? But the sense that I needed to look at that chapter finally apprehended me, and I pulled out my Bible, and I looked it up. My eyes fell on the words in verse 4: "I call you by your name, I name you, though you do not know me." This is a reference to Cyrus, the king of Persia, who was chosen by God to help the Jewish people. I read the whole chapter, and the words struck me and, point after point, seemed to say, "This is why Trump will be selected." Most striking to me were these verses:

"I will go before you
and level the exalted places,
I will break in pieces the doors of bronze and cut through the bars of iron,
I will give you the treasures of darkness and the hoards in secret places." (45:2-3)

I wondered if all the Trump-talk about "draining the swamp" had somehow subconsciously impacted my bias and I was merely reading into these verses that Trump would be used to level the exalted ones in Washington, as a kind of Cyrus type.

Since that experience, I have followed the Trump saga closely and, like others, have been amazed at what Trump has endured. If you consider the host of opposition, as fierce and overwhelming as it has been, you might wonder what Trump is made of. The arrows came from traditional and untraditional opponents, both expected and unexpected, from anticipated opposition groups like the liberal Democratic party, the liberal establishment in government, and the liberal part of the media.

But then it grew to new unexpected opposition, including elite members of his own Republican party and elite leaders within the CIA, FBI, and DOJ. The Democratic House even took the extraordinary step of putting forward articles of impeachment against the president.

If Mr. Trump survives and endures all of this and wins another election, as some of these prophecies declare, then we might suspect we have been in the presence of real prophets.

"Only God" could do what is prophesied for Donald Trump this year and in the next term. Only God can take a Cyrus and use him to fulfill the ultimate divine will and plan.

It will not be long before we find out if the prophets are right about Trump in the looming November election. Of course, if Trump loses, that will have to count as evidence that there is something wrong in modern Christian prophecy.

As Professor Beverley notes, the prophetic element should not be the deciding factor in judgment and analysis of President Trump. First, Christian prophets can be seriously wrong, as in predictions that Romney would win in 2012. Second, the prophets sometimes disagree with each other, though on Trump there is virtual unity and commendation. Third, the more important factors for judging the president involve issues of moral character, political acumen, financial health, and social betterment. Nevertheless, the prophetic element is a significant aspect, and we trust that this vast collection is a useful resource.

We have done our part by assembling the major prophecies about Trump in the context of ongoing social and political storms and have saved our readers dozens of hours of searching through the hundreds of prophetic writings that are available. Readers will notice that we have included entries from diverse perspectives (and inclusion of any entry does not necessarily mean endorsement). To avoid endless repetition, we have not put “alleged” when referencing a prophet or prophecy.

Preface

This book identifies Christian prophecies about Trump and introduces the major prophets who have prophesied or written about him. Context for these prophecies is provided by entries referencing the most important events in American politics before and after Trump's 2016 win and opinion pieces about Trump.

Entries are listed in chronological order. Key quotations and sometimes the full text of prophecies and publications are included. (Mark Taylor, for example, gave permission to have all his prophecies printed in this guide.) When the title itself does not depict the content, a brief summary is provided.

The digital version of God's Man in the White House provides embedded weblinks to the prophecies, events, and articles referenced in this book.

All quotes and website information included in this book have been taken directly from the authors' work and have not been copy edited for errors, and alterations in content have not been made.

Acknowledgements

I have been working on this project on Donald Trump and prophecy since before the November 2016 victory of Trump over Hillary Clinton. I am grateful to Rebekka Paul, my administrative assistant, for her enormous help on many items and tasks. As well, thanks to Janice Van Eck and Cindy Thompson for their work on design and format issues. I am grateful to Annette Johnson for help on researching details about various prophets and leaders mentioned in this book. For computer problems, I have been rescued by Robert Weiland (former IT specialist, Tyndale) and Dave McPherson (Softec Solutions). Thanks to Brian Cogswell for help on social media.

This guide illustrates that the most important place to go for modern Christian prophecies is The Elijah List, founded and run by Steve Shultz. I am grateful to Steve for help in my continuing research on the topic of prophecy and for assistance in contacting various prophets.

I appreciate the endorsement from my friend Rodney Howard-Browne, one of the great leaders in the charismatic and Pentecostal world. As well, thanks to Gordon Melton, founder of the Institute for the Study of American Religion, for his support and endorsement. This is my fourth book with Larry Willard, my publisher and long-time friend. It is a privilege to work with him.

Further, I am grateful to a circle of family and friends who have provided love and encouragement to me in my life and work, though not necessarily agreement with the contents of this or other books I have written. Thanks to Bob Beverley (my twin brother), my son (Derek Beverley), my daughter (Andrea Beverley), my son-in-law (Julien Desrochers), my uncle (Keith Beverley), my uncle (James Beverley—my namesake), John Wilkinson, Don Wiebe, Larry Matthews, Charis Tobias, Reg Horsman, Gordon Melton, Randy McCooeye, Bruxy Cavey, Ken MacLeod, Kaarina Hsieh, Kevin Rische, Robert Spencer, John Kessler, Carol Greig, Bill

Most important, I am grateful for the support and patience of my wife, Gloria, as she has had to listen to details about all my research over many years.

Introduction by James A. Beverley

Millions of Evangelical Christians supported Donald Trump and helped lead him to victory on November 8, 2016, in the stunning upset of Hillary Clinton. They voted for him in part because they believe Trump is God's "man for the White House." In particular, many Pentecostal and charismatic Christians supported Trump because they believed the Christian prophecies that Trump was the divine choice for president.

It is widely reported that Kim Clement, one of the most famous Christian prophets, announced Trump's presidency in 2007. Mark Taylor—firefighter turned prophet—has become famous for his 2011 announcement that Trump was to be commander in chief, though Taylor originally thought that prophecy was for the 2012 election. Other prophecies about Trump can be traced to the summer and fall of 2015, when Jeremiah Johnson, Lance Wallnau, and Lana Vawser (Australia) made known their belief that God was going to use Trump for divine purposes. (Remarkably, they came at a time when most Evangelical leaders were supporting Ted Cruz or Marco Rubio—and Donald Trump was doing very poorly in polling.) Prophecies about Trump increased with a frenzy during 2016, leading up to the November election. Prophets also issued divine warnings about Barack Obama, Clinton, and the Democrats in general.

While there has always been a prophetic dimension in church history and there are prophets in the Bible, especially the Old Testament, the current manifestation of prophets owes most to the rise of the Pentecostal and charismatic movements in the early twentieth century. In the last few decades, the prophetic element was dominant in several parts of the larger Pentecostal and charismatic world: the Kansas City Fellowship (led by Mike Bickle), the Vineyard Movement (connected most famously with John Wimber, now deceased), the Holy Laughter movement (Rodney Howard-Browne), the Toronto Blessing (John and Carol Arnott), the Pensacola Outpouring (John Kilpatrick), and through the New Apostolic Reformation (most often associated with Peter Wagner, now deceased, and Cindy Jacobs).

These movements form some of the matrix for the prophets who focus on Donald Trump. Providing important support, the prophetic angle to Trump's victory and presidency has been endorsed by leading figures in Pentecostal Christianity, including Stephen Strang, Jim Bakker, Rick Joyner, and Lou Engle.

In answer to the question "Is Trump God's man in the White House?" there are four main responses from Christians and from Christian prophets:

1. Most Christian prophets say yes and believe that God chose Trump to make America great again. These prophets are supported by millions of Pentecostals and charismatics who celebrate Trump's presidency, though often with concerns about various moral and spiritual aspects of his life.
2. A few Christian prophets say that Trump represents God's judgment on America and that he is part of an unfolding apocalyptic scenario, either wittingly or not. From this perspective, Trump is a sign that things will get worse as the world awaits the return of Jesus Christ.
3. Many Christians do not believe that the gift of prophecy is for today but believe Trump is God's man for other reasons, like his pro-life stance, views on immigration, and boost of the economy.
4. Christians who oppose Trump usually dismiss the prophets as deluded, lying, or gravely mistaken, at least about Trump. Disagreements over Trump's perceived moral and political failings lead these Christians to a repudiation of the prophetic angle on the president.

Whether one supports Trump or not, three facts should be noted about Christians who believe in the gift of prophecy. First, they do not accept everyone who claims to be a prophet. Steve Shultz, for example, does not cover every prophet named in this book in his famous Elijah List because he actually doubts some who claim to speak for God. Given this, it is not fair to lump all the prophets together.

Second, it should be remembered that Pentecostal and charismatic Christians do not believe that modern-day prophets are infallible. They can and do make mistakes—as in various predictions that Mitt Romney would win in 2012 and that Republicans would win both the House and the Senate in the 2018 mid-terms.

Third, while almost all contemporary Christian prophets are pro-Trump, they are not unaware of his past or present weaknesses. Jeremiah Johnson, for example, issued a prophetic warning in early 2018 about Trump's need for improvement in character.

While I leave it up to my readers to make their own judgments about Trump and prophecy, two observations are in order.

First, as Larry Willard notes and bears repeating, decisions about Trump should be based primarily on consideration of matters beyond the prophetic. We have in mind moral integrity in leadership and the best policies and actions regarding economic welfare, terrorism, foreign policy, health care, gun rights, immigration, social security, the education system, Supreme Court appointments, trade policies, the environment, and a pro-life agenda.

Second, in terms of style and emphasis, most prophets studied in this work are offering messages they believe are from God via dreams, visions, natural signs, and inspired thoughts. Other prophets focus on the interpretation of biblical material to talk about Trump's role in God's plans. (Of the latter, Jonathan Cahn, a messianic Christian rabbi in New Jersey, is a prime example.) Readers should assess both types of prophetic claims.

I realize that nothing can bridge the divide in society or the Christian church about Donald Trump, as shown recently in the impeachment battle and by the reaction to Christianity Today magazine's recent call for Trump to be removed from office. Regardless of how readers judge Trump and prophecy, I hope this resource is helpful in the task of ethical, political, and spiritual decision making as the November 2020 USA election approaches.

And some of you said, when the Spirit said Hillary Clinton, some of you shouted out "yes." God said, I have already dealt with her heart, not to be President of this Nation but to be president in a Christian world. She will have a testimony second to none and will eventually come out with it and make declaration that Christ Jesus saved her marriage, saved her child, and saved her life. And when this happens there will be a shaking in the Democratic Party so powerful. They will say, what choice do we have? And God says, one of the Kennedy sons who has lost a limb will come into the Kingdom and break the Kennedy curse once and for all, says the Spirit of God.

*The Spirit of God said, this is a moment of resurrection. For the Spirit of God says, honor Me with your praise and acceptance of this that I say to you. This that shall take place shall be the most unusual thing, a transfiguration, a going into the marketplace if you wish, into the news media. Where Time Magazine will have no choice but to say what I want them to say. Newsweek, what I want to say. The View, what I want to say. Trump shall become a trumpet, says the Lord! It shall come to pass that the man that I place in the highest office shall go in whispering My name. But God said, when he enters into the office he will be shouting out by the power of the Spirit for I shall fill him with My Spirit when he goes into office and there will be a praying man in the highest seat in your land. Taylor admits on the Jim Bakker Show in 2016 that he thought this prophecy was for 2012. Taylor claims that God said His people were not ready for change in 2012 and thus the prophecy was shifted to 2016.

The Spirit of God says, I have chosen this man, Donald Trump, for such a time as this. For as Benjamin Netanyahu is to Israel, so shall this man be to the United States of America! For I will use this man to bring honor, respect and restoration to America.

America will be respected once again as the most powerful and prosperous nation on earth, (other than Israel). The dollar will be the strongest it has ever been in the history of the United States, and will once again be the currency by which all others are judged.

The Spirit of God says, the enemy will quake and shake and fear this man I have anointed. They will even quake and shake when he announces he is running for president, it will be like the shot heard across the world. The enemy will say what shall we do now? This man knows all our tricks and schemes. We have been robbing America for decades, what shall we do to stop this? The Spirit says HA! No one shall stop this that I have started! For the enemy has stolen from America for decades and it stops now! For I will use this man to reap the harvest that the United States has sown for and plunder from the enemy what he has stolen and return it 7 fold back to the United States. The enemy will say Israel, Israel, what about Israel? For Israel will be protected by America once again. The Spirit says yes! America will once again stand hand and hand with Israel, and the two shall be as one. For the ties between Israel and America will be stronger than ever, and Israel will flourish like never before.

The Spirit of God says, I will protect America and Israel, for this next president will be a man of his word, when he speaks the world will listen and know that there is something greater in him than all the others before him. This man's word is his bond and the world and America will know this and the enemy will fear this, for this man will be fearless.

The Spirit says, when the financial harvest begins so shall it parallel in the spiritual for America. The Spirit of God says, in this next election they will spend billions to keep this president in; it will be like flushing their money down the toilet. Let them waist their money, for it comes from and it is being used by evil forces at work, but they will not succeed, for this next election will be a clean sweep for the man I have chosen. They will say things about this man (the enemy), but it will not affect him, and they shall say it rolls off of him like the duck, for as the feathers of a duck protect it, so shall my feathers protect this next president. Even mainstream news media will be captivated by this man and the abilities that I have gifted him with, and they will even begin to agree with him says the Spirit of God.

After Obama was re-elected in 2012, Johnson had a series of dreams that warned about Obama and Hillary Clinton.

Here is an excerpt from Johnson's book Chronicles of the Unknown Dreamer 2013:

In the dream I found myself working in a carpet truck and pulling up to the White House in Washington D.C. I walked inside and began tearing up the carpet and crying out, "We are living in the days of King Hezekiah." The White House staff became very alarmed and gathered around me as I began to weep. Sobbing and crawling around on my hands and knees, I said to them, "Was it not in the days of King Hezekiah where he foolishly welcomed the Babylonians into his kingdom, and there was nothing in his house nor in all his dominion that Hezekiah did not show the Babylonians? Behold, President Obama has acted foolishly. He has welcomed the Muslim Brotherhood into the White House. He has welcomed assassins who have been trained to kill the patriotic spirit. President Obama has formed an unholy alliance with Hillary Clinton. They wish to welcome the Islamic regime into America. He is and will continue to appoint strategic men and women in positions of authority to pave the way for Hillary."

At this point in the dream, the White House staff had attacked me and thrown me out on the White House steps. I got into my carpet truck and drove to a meeting of church leaders who were anxiously awaiting my arrival. Everyone seemed to know I had entered the White House and prophesied to the staff. I walked into the meeting with the pastors and leaders and prophesied to them. This is what the Lord says, "The end time church must not be deceived in this hour. They must intercede that the Muslim Brotherhood be exposed. America must not make a pact with Egypt against Israel. The will on Capitol Hill is demonically influenced. EVEN NOW I AM BREATHING UPON RUBIO. I am breathing upon those who carry the patriotic spirit of America. This nation must return to Me with weeping and wailing. They must pray for deception and demonic strategy to be revealed among President Obama and Hillary Clinton." Then I awoke.

Mentoring Prophets

On the false prophecies that Romney would defeat Obama.

Prophetic ministry is about staying in the counsel of the Lord rather than declaring what you might have heard from the Lord in some prophetic conference at the earliest opportunity. That takes time. It doesn't fit with our busy schedules, and it definitely doesn't fit with the demand of running a profitable prophetic business. But the prophets should learn to shut up if the Lord hasn't spoken. There's only one way to get out of the bankrupt state of the Western prophetic movement. It is to stop listening to all other voices and begin to listen to God.

"Pitfalls of a Spiritual Experience"
Charisma

Are there dangers in the school of spiritual experience? Yes! If a person lives outside the perimeters of the Word, way or will of God in any area of his life, danger lurks.

While Patricia King does not mention Trump in this teaching, her teaching about obedience to the Bible ("the Word") is a common theme among all Christian prophets.

Kim gives a prophetic word to Mr. Clark and a man named Donald:

I feel that cancers are being broken; I feel that there are sicknesses and diseases that are being healed at this very moment right now. There is a man by the name of Mr. Clark and there is also another man by the name of Donald. You are both watching me, saying could it be that God is speaking to me? Yes, He is! Somebody, just a few minutes before you came on the show, you went out and you took the American flag and you said, "I'm proud of my nation." You raised it up, and God said, "You have been determined through your prayers to influence this nation." You're watching me; you're an influential person. The Spirit of God says, "Hear the word of the prophet to you as a king, I will open that door that you prayed about and when it comes time for the election, you will be elected."

Kim's assistant, Sunil Isaac, says later that Kim did not know it was Donald Trump. (See remarks on this and other items in Isaac's reflection on the November 2016 election.)

One of Kim Clement's most famous prophecies speaks about a vision of a man who will become president of the United States and will be used of God to restore America and Israel. Some of the description fits Donald Trump, but some does not fit.

Hear Me, for I have found a man after My own heart. I have found a man after My own heart and he is amongst you. He is one of the brothers but singled out for Presidency of the United States of America.

I have searched for a man and a woman who would stand in the Oval Office and pray and call for the restoration of the fortunes of Zion. I have looked for a man who would pray for the restoration of the fortunes of Zion.

Watch how I change everything, for there shall be those who are in justice. There are those who are in a strong position, I'm just hearing this now, in the highest court in the land, the Supreme Court. Two shall step down for the embarrassment of what shall take place for I wish to place in the highest court in the land, righteousness.

I shouted and they all shouted. They were one; they were one; one party, one party of people. It continued until I realized that in the unity of these, amongst them stood one that God had set aside to be the leader of this nation. I said why am I hearing this so soon? Surely You would show me a little bit of it closer to the time. And the Spirit of God said to me, this man has a humble stature but he is a genius. And then I heard "gold." I wasn't sure if this was attached to his name, but He said to me, he will restore the fortunes in this nation because of his brilliance.

And the Spirit of God made me look at him, and He said, this man will throttle the enemies of Israel. This man will throttle the enemies of the West, and there are highly embarrassing moments that are about to occur for many, many politicians in this nation. There will be a shaking amongst the Democrats in the upcoming elections, but unsettling for the Republicans. Why is God doing this? For God said, I am dissatisfied with what emerges from both parties.

And then there is a nation, He showed me, He took me, itching for a new kind of war with America. They will shout, "Impeach, impeach," they say, but nay. This nation shall come very subtly but he shall not come in the time of President Obama. They shall come when this new one arises, My David that I have set aside for this nation, a man of prayer, a man of choice words, not a man who is verbose, who has verbosity, who speaks too much. They will even say, "This man is not speaking enough," but God says, I have set him aside. They will shout, "Impeach, impeach," but this shall not happen, and then, God says, highly embarrassing moments when another Snowden arises and people will become very afraid.

In this next week, this man shall begin to emerge, and in the following two weeks, which is a three-week period, he shall slowly come to the fore.

I have placed that man amongst you, a humble man. And as Samuel stood before the brothers, and they had rejected David to come because of his age, take all these little remarks I'm giving you, they are gems. The name and the word "gold," remember that. A man that is amongst them but is young. And God says, these that shall reject him shall be shocked at how he takes the giant down. Now hear me please. The giant of debt, the giants that have come, the brothers of Goliath, stand in glee watching America. "We will cripple you. You will lose your credit." But God said, watch, I said 20,000. Look not to Wall Street; however, observe.

God says, once you recognize the man that I have raised up, pray, for the enemy will do everything in his power to put a witch in the White House. Did anybody hear what He just said? For Jezebel has chased away the prophets and even Elijah. Now I have said, go back, for this shall be dismantled so that there will be no more corruption in the White House, says the Spirit.

America, freedom is yours in the Spirit! Israel, freedom to reign—America, righteous judgment and a great shaking of the Spirit in America!
