Canadian Christians Told To Get Down and Get Real

here is very little guaranteed in life.

When Jesus called His 12 disciples, He never promised their paths would be smooth. But they knew following Him was the best route they could ever take.

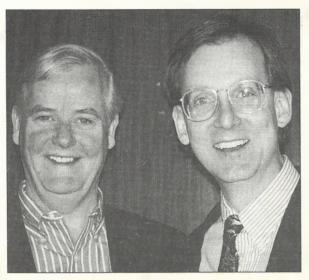

Like the chosen dozen, Christians today need to ask how each decision they make will further their discipleship role. Since life is supposed to mirror Jesus, this is often a challenge.

The conventional definition of discipleship is, "one who accepts and assists in spreading the doctrines of another." From a Christian perspective, this means to follow the ways of Jesus in order to spread His Word. This definition has not changed since He first used the phrase. But more than ever, with the decline of Christianity today, there is an urgent need to build up disciples to go and carry out the Great Commission.

On January 22 and 23, international speaker Os Guinness gave the sixth annual Staley Lectures on campus. He delivered four messages on Christians in the Modern World and reminded the audience of the essence of a disciple's call.

"The word "calling" is one of the most manipulable Christian truths in history," said Guinness during his second discourse. "It becomes anything and everything. Sometimes, it is used to justify evil like slavery- people are "called" to be what they are. Calling in Scripture is always to someone, not to something or somewhere. Calling is to the Lord. Calling is by the Lord. Calling is for the Lord."

Guinness also said there was a danger of forgetting one's disciple role in the midst of North American comfort.

"I came to know Christ in 1960. Second only to the real joy of knowing Him over the years has been a settled and pervasive sense of sorrow about a condition those of us who call ourselves followers of Christ have today," he said. "How can there be so many of us in such a vital part of the world at such a time as we live in and yet be so marginal to the real life in our societies and so inconsequential in so many of our own personal lives?"

Paul Thompson, international church planter with World Team and writer, echoed these concerns about the North American Christian. He was plenary speaker during Global Focus '97, OBC/OTS' fourth annual missions conference. Thompson challenged the audience to get more involved with their communities.

"Go down into the uncomfortable regions of alcohol and crime and decay. Spend a little more time in the bars. Spend a little more time in the taverns. Spend a little more time on Yonge St. and get to know what it's like."

I ompson said his 18 years of church planting in Spain were most successful when walked in the shoes of those he was disci-

"They began telling me about their worries. They began letting me go to their homes to meet their wives and children," said Thompson. "My children became involved with their children. We began to have parties together. We even went on vacations together. I learned their

MINISTRY ENRICHMENT OPPORTUNITIES

Personal, Spiritual and Professional Formation

Archibald Hart, psychology professor at Fuller Theological Seminary, is the guest speaker at a two-day ministry enrichment conference scheduled for April 4 and 5 on campus.

Breaking Free will address the issues freedom from dependency, abusive power in the church and integrating psychotherapy and spiritual direction on the first day. Stress-proofing your world, finding freedom from anger and healing broken relationships will be addressed the next. The talks gear toward developing healthier personal, spiritual and professional formations.

The author of 18 books including Stress and Your Child and Overcoming Anxiety, Hart is also an international lecturer. The seminar is sponsored by OTS, The Renewal Fellowship and Woodbridge Presbyterian Church.

Call Norm Kerr, conference coordinator, at ext. 6714 for more details on early registration and student discounts. Residence accommodations are also available.

– 1997 Honeyman Lectures —

The second annual Honeyman lectures will be held March 18 and 19 at OBC/OTS.

Jeannie Lockerbie Stephenson, a veteran missionary and writer, is scheduled to speak on Add to Your Faith: A Missionary Muses on 2 Peter 1. She is presently the editor of The Message, a quarterly missionary's magazine.

These lectures are to be held from 10:45 to 11:30 a m. daily, during chapel time. On the first day, Lockerbie Stephenson will also speak on "A Christian Woman in a Muslim Society" from 12:45 p.m. to 1:45 p.m. At 2 p.m., she is guest speaker on "Islam: A Christian Missionary Perspective" in James Beverley's comparative religions class ($102). The next evening, Lockerbie Stephenson will speak in Irving Whitt's theology in context class at 6:30 p.m. (S101). The topic is "Writing for a Cross-Cultural Audience.

Lockerbie Stephenson has served as a missionary in Bangladesh (formerly East Pakistan) since 1963. For 30 years, she taught English and history to missionary children, lectured at Christian colleges and conducted writing workshops in India, Bangladesh, Ukraine, Togo, Thailand and the U.S. During this time, Lockerbie Stephenson also founded and developed a major publishing venture that distributes Bengali Christian literature internationally. She is the author of 22 books in Bengali—the world's seventh most widely spoken language—and has also written six books in English. For more information, call the OTS dean's office at ext. 2706.

MEMORIAL

Sharon McVity Bell, 1951-1997

On January 20, Sharon Bell was killed instantly in a car accident near

Grand Prairie, Alberta. The OBC/OTS community feels this loss deeply.

Sharon Ruth McVity was born in Japan to missionary parents. In 1969, she came to Toronto to study at OBC. She married John Bell in 1973 and they served for 17 years as faculty in the OBC music department. Sharon's gracious spirit and giving heart endeared her to the hundreds of students who studied under her tutelage.

A memorial service was held on February 12 at OBC/OTS. An audio recording of the program is available by calling ext. 2113.

KingdomARTS PRESENTS...

The Passion of Christ, a dramatic production with musical accompaniment about the death and resurrection of Jesus. This will be presented by OBC/OTS students on March 25 at 8:15 p.m. and March 27 at 9:15 p.m. in Hooper Chapel. A $2 donation at the door would be appreciated.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO OUR DONORS

To reduce costs, OBC/OTS has implemented an annual receipt practice, effective immediately. Each time a gift is received, the school will continue to issue a statement, which will verify the donation. This can also be used as a temporary receipt. If you do require an official receipt for each gift, please write or call the school at ext. 2752. U.S. donors, to receive an income tax receipt, please send your gifts to D.M. Stearns Missionary Fund, Inc., P.O. Box 1578, North Wales, PA, 19454, U.S.A. Checks can be made payable in American funds to D.M. Stearns Missionary Fund. To indicate the gift is for OBC/OTS, write on the envelope or on a separate sheet of paper—not on the check—#315.

desires, dreams and longings. I learned what it meant to be Spanish."

He also emphasized that methods of evangelism need to be tailored to the audience.

"What you usually do overseas is practice what (Christian author) C.S. Lewis called "mere Christianity,"" said Thompson during a later interview. "In other words, what is the good news and how does it affect and apply in that society? If you impose North American views of culture and ideas of Christianity, you would be mistaken."

Discipleship in relation to contemporary academia is also vital. OTS Academic Dean Ward Gasque said that Christians need to continually make the Bible relevant to today.

"In our study of the Word, we don't stop simply with studying what it meant in the first century. We want to know what it means on the eve of the 21st century and how it applies to life. We constantly look at historic Christian faith for guidance."

Gasque also said the changing society requires OBC/OTS to respond productively to the challenge. "I want to see more lay people training here, to receive theological education to help them not only understand faith, but also, to be more effective disciples of Jesus."

Stephen Thomson, OBC professor of New Testament, said that 21st century disciples have the same purpose as the original ones did.

"The sign of any disciple is that he/she claims Jesus as Savior and God, and has embarked upon the life of following Christ," said Thomson. He also said the school is part of the ongoing discipleship process, which began in the first century.

"We recognize our role as an academic institution as one slice of the disciple formation. In class, conversation and community, we are involved with encouraging each other as disciples."

The school's goal is to be and make disciples as Jesus commanded. This, however, requires a Christological focus, something often overlooked.

"In North America, many churches are lacking because people are interested in crowds and numbers," said Paul Thompson. "People don't really have the desire to spend time to identify and respond to key problems others may have. We have hurting people all around because of this. Disciples need to meet these needs as Jesus would."

Although discipleship was never promised to be an easy route, there is nothing as rewarding as this Way. Guaranteed.

CHURCH'S CORNER

OBSERVING LENT: RESOURCES FROM OUR CHRISTIAN CALENDAR

By Paul Friesen, OBC professor of history

Why is there a Christian Calendar? Evangelical Christians have long celebrated Sundays as the chief day of the week. Worship on this day is a testimony to faith in a risen Christ, in a society which tends to devote itself to making and spending money seven days a week. Likewise, evangelicals try to celebrate Christmas and Easter as crucial events in the life of the church rather than special shopping seasons which Valentine's, Mother's and Father's day seem to have become as well. But there is much more to the Christian calendar. The church from the earliest centuries testified against the pagan names of the months and years, as well as their holidays, by creating an extensive alternative calendar that witnessed to their Savior. Advent leads up to Christmas (celebrated with a wreath with candles in some evangelical churches). But little is known about Lent, the season that commemorates Jesus' 40 days in the wilderness, the time from Ash Wednesday to Palm Sunday.

What is the purpose of Lent? It is intended to be a period of spiritual preparation for the events of Holy Week. This week changed the course of human history, beginning with Palm Sunday and extending through Maundy Thursday, Good Friday, Holy Saturday, and ending with the joyous arrival of Easter.

How might our local church observe Lent in preparation for Holy Week? It is unrealistic to expect that all churches and denominations would want to observe Lent in the same way. Ashes and the color purple (a symbol of sinfulness) and the Stations of the Cross (which recall Christ's suffering on our behalf) are used by some. But there are more basic disciplines that come down to us across the centuries: special periods of fasting, self-examination, prayer, giving up certain pleasures which are gifts of God, a special focus on the study of the Bible and the preparation of new converts for baptism on Easter. These elements tell us and the world around that the Christ who died for the sins of humanity is the center of our life, our calendar.

I was asked at a recent meeting of college and seminary presidents what our goal was. My response was quick and brief: to help win the Dear friends, world for Jesus Christ. Some were surprised. Some said theirs was to build excellence in theological education. And that is a most worthy goal—to provide quality education for church leadership.

But our ultimate concern is defined in our new mission statement: To educate and equip Christians to serve the world with passion for Jesus Christ. This keeps our focus. Among all the things we do at both the college and seminary, when all is said and done, we desire with passion that our world is won to faith and love in Jesus.

You will see in coming months an exciting strategic plan that will give us a new and fresh understanding of our calling. You will learn of a plan to expand our offerings of education and to enlarge our capacity for its diversity. We want to use the best available resources to encourage the learning of the Word of God and to prepare for Undergirding this strategic plan is a deep and abiding commitment to witness to our world of the Living Christ. On that there is no question. leadership.

The Pothole at the End of the Rainbow

By Larry Willard, VP Development

am persuaded that the Lord works everything out for good and that we should thank Him for the pleasant things that happen as well as the unpleasant. But I must admit that I was dubious about anything good coming out of the encounter with the city over our parking lot problem. Neither was I thankful about the timing of the dis-

As you may remember, in our last issue of Connection, we reported the ghastly news that North York city council sent a letter to Vice-President of Finance Winston Ling, informing him that the school had 30 days to get the parking lot paved or a court order would be served. Our investigation discovered that the school had missed not just one mandatory completion date for paving the parking lot as promised in our seminary expansion plans, but in fact had missed three additional extensions, and there were no clemencies left.

No one wanted that lot paved more than we did! It had become the source of jokes among students, embarrassment with visitors and outrage with our neighbors. This also did nothing for our Christian witness.

Records showed that poor finances had made it virtually impossible to complete the $400,000 to $500,000 project when planned. And at the time we received city hall's letter, we were no better off.

Knowing nothing short of a miracle would save us from a disaster, we began asking our partners to pray to God for wisdom on how to handle this bombshell. We were thankful when, soon after, a dedicated donor came forth with a proposal. He offered to give us an interest-free loan for half the amount needed if we would generate a modest user-based revenue to repay him. We asked students and staff how they felt and most agreed that the solution was preferable to closing down the school.

Next, a major building contractor in the city came forward and offered his entire staff's expertise to help draw up plans for the paving. He also volunteered to serve as an ongoing consultant for the project free of charge. How we thank the Lord for His care!

Now that left us $200,000-$250,000 short of the cost. But thankfully, creative supporters have said that they are willing to pay the cost of one parking space if others will join them in doing so. Some are even willing to pay for a square yard

We have calculated that paving a single parking space would cost about $1,000 and a square yard, $70. I guess you could fill a medium-sized pothole for $50. I never would have imagined that such a discouraging problem would turn into such an exciting adventure.

There may be many of you out there who would love to join our other friends and be part of this Heavenly road gang. You may want to help pave a full space, a yard or a pothole. Whatever you choose, we would be most thankful for your participation. Please let me know if you want to be a part of this project. Alumni, churches and friends can call me at the school (ext. 2707) to let me know you want to join us in this adventure.

I'm having memorabilia pins made up that say, "I paved the way for a miracle at OBC/OTS." Donors will be invited to a special parking lot celebration this summer. Even the neighbors are being asked to join us.

So, as you can see, I have many reasons to be thankful that this disaster happened. Without it, the Lord wouldn't have had a chance to perform another miracle here at the school.

The situation could have been worse. At least we don't have to pave the lot with gold like the roads in our Heavenly home.

Sympatico Special Internet Service Replaces School Program

Students, alumni, donors, churches and friends of OBC/OTS across Canada can now purchase top quality Internet services at a reduced rate and help the school at the

A new agreement signed with Sympatico (provided by Bell Canada) replaces the previous offer advertised by OBC/OTS. The new package gives customers all of the features of the popular Sympatico Internet service but at a reduced price, while OBC/OTS receives a 4% rebate for all billings signed through them.

"We are now able to offer a competitive service right across Canada, accessed locally in most major cities," said Larry Willard, vice-president of development. OBC/OTS customers will save 35% one the start up kit, 20% on the monthly rate and 33% on additional hours used during the month.

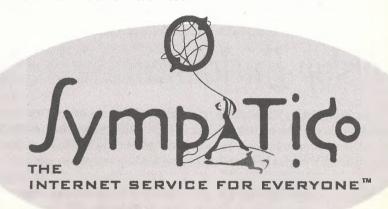

Under the program, OBC/OTS customers will have direct access to the school's website right on their Sympatico home page. All news and key information about the school will be right at your fingertips alongside the local and national reports.

"The Sympatico service has a number of filters on unwanted materials, which can plague users," said Willard. "No matter which city you live in, the news, town highlights and weather are local."

There are two options: a highly competitive regular service and a light option that runs at a normal Sympatico rate but with a reduced start-up cost. Currently the service is only available for PCs but Macs will be offered later on.

This offer is also extended to any churches or friends of the school. Willard said this was very generous of Bell since they lose revenue and give a 4% rebate on all OBC/OTS billings. He also apologized for the inconvenience initial inquirers may have experienced. "We hope the new service advantages will make up for it," said

DTHE FORTIES

Edward Torejesen ('47) said that the most exciting event in their work in China during the past year was seeing the local church expand its intense leadership training to begin a one-year Bible school program. Pray for Evergreen as they work hard to keep up with growth on the field.

DTHE FIFTIES

Speaking engagements keep Cecil and Lucille Gracey (Symes '50) busy in Victoria, British Columbia. In September, Lucille needed surgery, but planned to resume her volunteer duties in January in the emergency department.

Hugh ('53) and Olive Worsfold ('54), who have worked in Costa Rica since 1956, are now retired and plan to stay there. They praise God for demonstrating to them the results of their labor—their most unruly youngster at vacation Bible school 30 years ago is now married and they have two daughters.

Jim Mason ('56) reported that there is still a great need for a Cinevan manager in Nigeria. Continue to pray for the right person to do this job.

DTHE SIXTIES

Ruth Thomson ('62), who is with Wycliffe Bible Translators, rejoiced for the completion of the New Testament into Kayapo. She requested prayer for responsible people to rent her home while she is on furlough and for Wakokra to not get discouraged as he cares for his flock.

Annemarie Hattenhauer ('62) reported from Cameroon, West Africa and said that teaching in the Baptist Theological Seminary has been much easier with the help of a modern computer.

Gladys Linthicum ('62) is retired after 33 years in Peru and praises God for the joy of serving Him in the Evangelical Seminary of Lima. She asked for prayer to find an apartment in Calgary, where she will move.

Bev and Warner Spyker ('64) completed their two-year assignment with SIM and are now working with the Africa Inland Mission as their Ontario representatives. Grace Allison ('66) will be home from Africa for five months. Her hearing is declining and she requested prayers for an aid.

Carl ('67) and Wilma DeBoer (Heylink '65) began another leadership training course with 10 new prospective leaders for the Cell Group Ministry in Japan. Pray for the families touched as some are interested in the Gospel.

Carol and Don Pickel ('68), who work in Winnipeg with GMU, have a very busy schedule during the early spring. They ask for prayers as they continue to serve missionaries.

THE SEVENTIES

Lesley Kayser ('70) has been home in Ontario sharing in different places about her work in Bolivia. When she returns there, Heather Stainton will join her as an English as a second language teacher and a short-term associate with SIM.

Pray for Bev Boyle ('71) in Spain as she works with girls in a Bible study and as she develops new contacts with whom she shares the Gospel.

Robert and Deborah Millar ('77), serving with Global Outreach Mission, are rejoicing in Dublin because after two and a half years of praying, working and waiting, their church has now moved into their new building. Pray for their growing ministry with people in the area around the new church and for the workers who will be joining them shortly.

Paul Holmes ('78) is teaching in a Christian school after having served with his wife, Carol, in Africa for two years with Wycliffe. The Holmes and their five children now reside in Airdrie, Alberta.

Gerald ('78) and Dorothy Hogenbirk (Henderson '78) and their family moved from Cote D'Ivoire to Central Europe, where Gerald began a three-year term as field leader with the Alliance church.

Tom Oliver ('79) accepted a new position with the Canadian AIM office as coordinator. He begins in June. Ruth ('75) and Tom requested prayers for the myriad tasks that need to be taken care of in Kenya before they leave.

DTHE EIGHTIES

John and Lois Dillion ('81) give thanks for the birth of their son Benjamin, born September 16, 1996 and also for their new housing situation in Kuala Penyu. They asked for prayer for the completion of their first research project by June, in time for the renewal of their visa.

Dave ('84) and Sandy Roberts ('83) asked for prayers for a clear sense of direction as Dave considers taking on the now vacant position of secretary for personnel in the Zambia field. If elected, this new position would commence next January for a four-year term.

Pray for Gloria Mallory ('89) as she now looks for a new direction in her work life.

Pray for Bev and Ruben Ramirez ('89) who reported widespread corruption and violence in Colombia. Pray that the Lord will sustain Ruben, who has been having some serious health problems.

THE NINETIES

Pray for John and Susan Iseminger ('91) as they adjust to life in Montepuez, and for their language studies.

Marianne VanSchepen ('92) now works as a junior kindergarten teacher at a Christian school. Pray for the young lives that she touches.

Lynn Halse ('93) has left her position as research assistant and now works with YouthShine Ministries.

Breton Murphy ('95) and Mary Jane Crouse (OTS '95) were married September 21, 1996.

THE SEMINARY

DTHE EIGHTIES

Carolyn and Doug Brown ('88) requested prayer as they are in the process of applying for Canadian citizenship for Matthew, their adopted son from Zaire. This must be completed before their return there in July. They had a difficult fall season due to the sudden death of Carolyn's brother.

DTHE NINETIES

Gretchen and Mark Potma ('91) praised God that their Czech work permit has been extended to December 1999. Just this September, they started a new congregation with 20 believers in the Hotel Opatov.

Pray for Linda Carmichael ('92) as she serves in Kalimantan, Indonesia. She reports that there is much unrest and potential violence. Pray for those with whom she serves and for the Christian community in Indonesia.

Cheryl and Peter Hambrey ('93) are praying for someone to serve in Hyderabad for nine months to a year in September, to teach their children. This would enable them to continue their ministry there.

MEMORIALS

Hazel Mann ('55), March 14, 1996. Remember Hazel's family in your prayers.

Lillian May Benner ('23), April 6, 1996. Pray for her family and friends.

John McDonald ('55), August 7, 1996. He sang his way into our hearts.

Joe Baker ('56), October 29, 1996. His LBI friends will miss him.

David Whitfield ('52), January 6, 1997. Remember his wife Kay ('53) in your prayers.

Audrey Lowe ('52), January 10, 1997. Pray for Audrey's family at this time.

Sharon Bell ('73), January 22, 1997. So many students, alumni and friends will miss her.

Alumni, send us your news!

GOLDEN MILERS

If you graduated from the college in 1947, you're a member of a very special group of alumni called the golden milers. You're invited to be our guests at the OBC/OTS graduation on May 3 at Queensway Cathedral in Toronto, and to join us for lunch beforehand at a local restaurant. Contact the alumni office for more information.

ALUMNI FAMILY PICNIC

All alumni who graduated between 1972-1997 are invited to a family picnic at OBC on Saturday, June 14. Games, clowns, balloons and crafts will keep children entertained for part of the afternoon while alumni visit with each other and look at displays and memorabilia commemorating the last 25 years. Anniversary reunions for the classes '72, '77, '82, '87 and '92 will also be held. Any other years who wish to host a reunion are asked to call the alumni office.

LOOKING AHEAD

Alumni celebrating the anniversary of their graduation in '47, '52, '57, '62 and '67 will meet in October. This large alumni gathering is to be organized in conjunction with a ministry enrichment conference. Class presidents and secretaries are encouraged to call for more details.

A New Creation

Lee Bryant is a survivor.

In 1958, she overcame alcoholism after an eight-year battle. Her reason was simple: she discovered the Living waters.

"When I accepted Christ, it was easy for me to stop drinking," remembered Bryant. "My desire for alcohol just went away."

Bryant first found solace in drinking at the age of 19. The proceeding year, she lost her mother to cancer, one week before her 18th birthday. Drinking was her escape from harsh realities.

"My mother was my best friend. I wasn't close to anyone else in the family," said Bryant, referring to her father and brothers, who were 11 and 14 years her senior (she was adopted). "She was a strong Christian and I couldn't accept that the God my mother told me about was the same God who took her away so painfully."

After her mother's death, Bryant moved from Mississauga, the west Toronto suburb where she grew up, to the city. She pursued her passion for art. At this time, she met a lot of other artists who led fast-paced lifestyles and who also drank excessively. In 1956, Bryant moved to Kitchener, upon the warning from her landlady that the apartment was to be raided by the RCMP for narcotics. Bryant, who wasn't involved with drug use, took her advice.

Kitchener was a kinder place but her drinking continued. A brush with the law resulted in a night in jail.

law resulted in a night in jail.

"Being in there was a humiliating experience. I knew something needed to change," said Bryant. She went from job to job in Kitchener. A turning point occurred when she began reading The Burden is Light, an autobiographical book by Light, an autobiographical book by Eugenia Price, who wrote about her hedonistic life and how it was transformed by Jesus.

"It was such a peaceful, powerful book," said Bryant. It was given to her by a minister's wife from a local church. After a year of close mentoring, Bryant's heart began to change. And so did her life. On February 19, 1958, she accepted

Christ. The next year, Bryant enrolled at

Toronto Bible College (now OBC) in the bachelor of theology program, inspired by the testimony of a student who sang at her church in Kitchener.

"This person, like myself, didn't live a predictable life. I could relate," she said. Bryant also knew that formal schooling would help her theology.

"I needed to get my atheistic thoughts out of my head, to flush them out. My life took a new direction and this was part of it." She graduated in 1963.

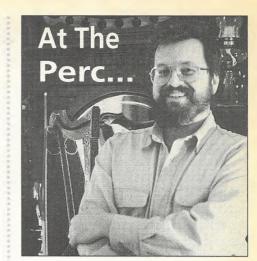

Remembering her TBC days, Bryant spoke with enthusiasm. "Chicago was a dynamic learning experience," she said, referring to her college supervised ministry job at the Pacific Garden Mission. "I also made many good friends, like family, while living in TBC's residence. They even allowed me to set up an art studio in the basement of Rhodes residence."

After graduation, Bryant wrote for many publications and has two published books, Come, Fill the Cup and The Magic Bottle. Both books are accounts of her life and the struggles she overcame. She has also since studied at the Universities of Toronto and Waterloo.

Presently, Bryant is a part-time professor at Conestoga College in Kitchener, where she teaches world religions and women in Canadian history. She is also a guest speaker at various Christian events and is constantly researching and writing. Bryant is at peace, fulfilled. She is a survivor, but more importantly, a new creation.

Humorist and international youth ministry lecturer Duffy Robbins was keynote speaker on February 8th at the 11th annual Today's Teen conference.

Now featured in the school's coffee shop are paintings by Christian artist David Rankine. Rankine says he is drawn to themes of redemption, rebirth and humankind's stewardship of the earth. His art is greatly influenced by other cultures, including the Celtic tradition.

Called to Disciple

While at OTS, Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada pastor David Hazzard was glad to dispel a couple of myths about his denomination.

"Pentecostals were often seen as a speckled bird, a non-intellectual denomination," said Hazzard with a smile. "But being in an interdenominational environment like OTS helped me develop a clear understanding of what I believed. I enjoyed many stimulating discussions with students, especially those of other denominations."

Hazzard was born and raised in Wallaceburg, a town between Sarnia and Windsor. It was here he was brought up going to a local Pentecostal church. At age 22, after teenage years he described as rebellious, Hazzard sensed a strong call in his life. That year, in 1980, he enrolled at Eastern Pentecostal Bible College in Peterborough, after working seven years in his family's agricultural services business. Two years later, he transferred to Emmanuel Bible College in Kitchener. After graduating in 1983, he followed up on his desire to pursue further education and enrolled at OTS, graduating from the master of theological studies program two years later.

"Completing a masters degree opened many doors, including the opportunity to serve God in a third-world context," said Hazzard. After graduating from OTS in 1985, he and his wife Stacey, along with their three children, moved to Kenya (their fourth child was born there) and for three years, Hazzard taught theology at Pan Africa Christian College in Nairobi. Upon moving back to Canada, he and his family went to Edmonton, where he pastored a church. The Hazzards were there until 1994, when they were called to Queensway Cathedral.

While at OTS, Hazzard worked as a full time associate pastor at Pickering Pentecostal Church. He also served at Northview Pentecostal Church in Peterborough when at Eastern and during his Emmanuel days, was on staff at Kitchener Gospel Temple. Although it was a challenge to maintain his regiment of studies and work, Hazzard said this balance of theological education and service was extremely valuable.

"Integrating school and ministry helped me deal with many significant issues, enabling me to develop leadership skills and to gain confidence."

Today, Hazzard serves at Queensway Cathedral in Etobicoke, which has a congregation of 1,500. He works with four full-time associates as a "pastor-teacher." He is also presently working on his doctor of ministry degree by correspondence at Trinity Evangelical Divinity School in Deerfield, Illinois. Although this is a busy lifestyle, Hazzard seems to thrive on it.

"It's important to marry theology with practice. You learn so much by combining the two."

OBC/OTS hosted an international food fair on January 28th during Global Focus '97, the school's fourth annual missions conference.

Rosemary and Michael Green will be on campus during the spring/summer sessions to teach courses from May 26-30. Rosemary is teaching "Open to God" and Michael, the Gospel of Mark.

Twenty Centuries of Christian Worship WORS 0603, Lester Ruth, PhD, visiting professor in the Institute for Worship Studies program at OTS

Introducing...

Twenty Centuries of Christian Worship:

This course will address three concerns of those who are committed to worship reform in the local church. It provides a glimpse of the way Christians have worshiped in the past, addresses the way Christians are thinking about worship today, and looks toward the future in relation to worship renewal. There will not be a focus on one tradition, or one approach to the renewal of worship, but will consider the many traditions of worship and mine each tradition for all that it's worth.

Biblical Foundations of Worship:

This course will introduce the student to the practice of worship in both the Hebrew tradition and the early Christian church. Major themes such as covenant, sacrifice, festivals and symbols will be explored. The various Israelite and Christian institutions of worship such as the Tabernacle, temple, synagogue and home church worship in the New Testament will be discussed. Finally, this course will address the Biblical foundations for practices such as the exercise of charismatic gifts, acts of traditional worship, and the sacraments and ordinances of the Church.

Faculty and Staff Notes

OBC adjunct professor Rochelle Cole has been teaching psychology at the school for the past year. Her specialization is in adolescent and adult development. She earned her Ph.D. from McMaster University. Cole is a psychologist at the Crossroads Family Center in Burlington and serves on the boards of two agencies for adolescents: Lamplight and Straight Talk. She is a member of Philpot Tabernacle (AGC) in Hamilton.

Ward Gasque, OTS VP and academic dean, professor of New Testament since 1995, completed his Th.M. at Fuller Theological Seminary and his Ph.D. at Manchester University. Gasque was formerly the provost and dean of graduate studies, as well as professor of Biblical studies, at Eastern College in Pennsylvania. He is on the executive of the Theological Commission of the World Evangelical Fellowship and is a fellow of the Oxford Center for Mission Studies. He and his wife Laurel attend Knox Presbyterian Church (PCC) in Toronto.

John Wilkinson is OBC VP and academic dean, OTS professor and coordinator of youth and educational ministries and the school's VP of strategic planning and institutional change. He is also a camping and youth consultant with Kesalon Ministries and assistant to the executive director at Youth for Christ Toronto. Wilkinson studied his M.A. and Ed.D. at the University of Toronto and has taught at the school since 1976. He and his wife Trish are members of Spring Garden Baptist Church (BCOQ) in North York.

Dennis Ngien, OTS adjunct professor of systematic theology, had an article published in February's edition of Christianity Today entitled, "The God Who Suffers."

OBC Independent Studies

By Robert Duez, independent studies coordinator

Ontario Bible College offers a study-at-home program called independent studies. Each course is a self-contained unit of cassette tapes, textbooks and a study manual Our own professors have prepared the tapes and you will receive the same basic instruction that our full-time students receive in the classroom. The satisfactory completion of a given course will provide a three-hour credit toward our one-year certificate or toward a college diploma. If you are not interested in college credit, you can purchase the materials for your own enrichment.

Currently, we have 16 courses available for home study: four in the Old Testament, eight from the New Testament, three in Christian doctrine and one in hermeneutics. All interested persons can receive a full description of these exciting courses by calling or independent study office at ext. 6715.
